GAINS CONTROL OF EAGLE'S NEST

Formal transfer of stock representing the control of the Fairview Eagle's Nest Mining Company, one of the big properties of the Fairview district, was made to Colonel O. P. Posey through the Washoe County Bank yesterday according to the announcement made by one of the interested parties.

The deal represents a cash consideration of close to a quarter of a million dollars and places the property in the hands of one of the best known mining men in the United States. It has been pending for several days. Final details were completed at Carson this week at a meeting of San Francisco and Nevada capitalists, consisting of Herman Zadig, William Moise, James Degan, Kenneth Donnellan, A. F. Curtis, C. E. Hardin and James Pollock, the latter of Salt Lake City.

The Fairview Eagle's Nest is one of the assets of the Sullivan Trust Company. The liabilities of the company at the time of its failure amounted to $1,200,000. The stockholders of the company at that time pooled all the interests of the company, deposited the assets with the State Bank and Trust Company and secured the funds with which to meet the obligations. At that time an agreement was formed that in the sale of the securities the brokers were to receive 40 per cent, the banks 40 per cent, and the stockholders 20 per cent of the proceeds of the sale of these securities.—State Journal.

O'FARREL SUED FOR LARGE SUM

GOLDFIELD, Feb. 7.—The John S. Cook bank has brought suit in the District Court against M. B. O'Farrell, formerly a broker in Goldfield, for $42,667.02, secured by a promissory note. The paper was drawn on May 23, 1907. The accrued interest, which is also asked for in the complaint, amounts to $3560.36.

O'Farrell is well known in Goldfield, having served for a time as manager for the firm of Patrick, Elliott & Camp, later succeeding to the proprietorship.

Sol Camp has also been sued by the John S. Cook bank for $3130.82, loaned on a promissory note.

MARGIN TRADING DECIDED LAWFUL

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 7.—Judge George W. Wheeler, on the civil side of the Superior Court, this afternoon practically declared, in a decision on a suit over a stock deal, that trading on margins is not gambling.

Samuel Alderman, an attorney, and his mother, Mrs. Annie Alderman, lost, so they set up in their complaint, between $10,000 and $15,000 and sued the local brokerage firm of Yoemans & Dill for $20,000 damages. The firm has gone out of business since the suits were begun. Mr. Yoemans is dead.

The action was brought under that section of the Connecticut statute which provides that any person who shall be playing at any game or betting on the sides or hands of such persons as do play and shall lose shall recover that amount from the winner or winners.

Counsel for the defendants moved for a non-suit on the ground that the transaction described did not come within the meaning of the gambling statutes and Judge Wheeler dismissed the suit.

A suit to recover $95,000 from Yoemans & Dill was brought by the National Tradesmen's Bank of this city. Douglas Smith, now in the Connecticut State prison, while teller of this bank, lost a lot of the bank's cash speculating in stock through Yoemans & Dill, and the bank had determined to try and recover from the brokers under the gambling act.

ONCE PROMINENT; NOW PENNILESS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7.—A California pioneer, a brilliant attorney, admitted to practice in eight States and thrice around the world, at the age of 78, John F. Davidson tonight found himself moneyless and stranded in this city. He applied to the Associated Charities for aid. The authorities will try to place him as a companion or in a like position, where his attainments and wide knowledge may be useful.

Davidson, after a varied career, came to this State early in the seventies, and in 1876, while living in San Francisco, was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court, his certificate being signed by Chief Justice W. T. Wallace and others. From there he went to Honolulu and practiced fifteen years. In 1899 he was induced to go to China in behalf of American merchants to handle important litigation. He made plenty of money, but malaria almost killed him and his wife and they had to leave. A business associate betrayed and robbed him of most of his fortune. His wife died and now he is alone and penniless.

JAPAN ON VERGE OF BANKRUPTCY

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 5.—Advices received by the Empress of India from Yokohama show that the military party which became dominant in Japan since the Japanese-Chinese war and which has since practically ruled the governments of Japan, is beginning to lose its powers. The middle classes growing up as a result of the progress of industrialism, embittered by the increasing taxation and serious development of the financial situation, is bitterly attacking the military, and the recent resignations of the Finance and Communications Ministers are a sidelight of the coming struggle. It is considered that Japan is at the parting of the ways and must abandon her military and naval expansion schemes or impose further burdens on commerce and industry which those who bear them will resent. The time has come for decision between the military and industrial ideal, and it is considered that if the military party is favored Japan will have declared for national bankruptcy.

Our rig is on the ground and no time will be lost in drilling.

One hundred thousand shares will be sold at FIVE CENTS per share and the proceeds used in development work. Considering location, immense holdings, etc., stock should be at par when the first well is completed.
